THE PALACE APPOINTEE WHO did not use the official line and publicly assailed the controversial transfer of a convicted American Marine back to US custody is quitting his post.

"I stood my ground. I'm leaving government," read a text message sent to the Department of Defense secretary by Undersecretary Zosimo Brando, executive director of the Presidential Commission on the RP-US Military Services Agreement (MISA).

Reached later on the phone, Brando said that in his meeting Friday with Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita, he told his superior that "my position was to the office to express my conviction that I took a stand diametrically opposed to the administration's."

"I'll just wind down the affair in the office and by the end of the month I should be ready to go," said Brando, who had earlier conceded he was riding his post when he criticized the manner by which MISA's executive director, General Juanito, convinced of taking a Filipino woman, from the Manila City Jail and transferred him to the US Embassy just 11 days after his arrest.

Brando, now in his third year in the VFA-Cent, said he expected to submit his resignation later this week.

An influential Palace official said President Macapagal-Arroyo had decided not to submit the VFA-Cent, as had been suggested by administration law, Marine Defense Secretary.

But Brando said he was not so because the President was annoyed by his action of publicly criticizing Smith's transfer, and the official who asked him to be named for lack of authority to speak about the matter.

The official also said Mr. Arroyo was already adding all the names of possible replacements for Brando, whose firing would

AFP '07 target: Crush 24 of 52 Red guerrilla fronts

By Gino Pascibugan

BOULSTERED BY P16 BILLION WORTH of new weapons purchases, the military has set its sights on destroying at least half of 52 known active guerrilla fronts of the communist New People's Army in 2007.

This was the target set by top military officials at their five-volume conference for the New Year at their Camp Aguinaldo headquarters yesterday.

Armed Forces Chief of Staff Gen. Hermogenes Esguerra Jr. said the military aims to "neutralize" at least 24 active NPA guerrilla fronts and at least 1,800 individual fighters this year.

"Out of the remaining 508 NPA guerrilla fronts, at least 52 are identified to be active. The AFP will prioritize the destruction of at least 24 active guerrilla fronts this year," he said.

In the next three years, the AFP target is to wipe out at least 3,300 NPA rebels, which would cut by half the NPA's estimated strength of 7,100 armed fighters.

By that time, he would have attained a strategic defeat of the CPP-NPA by 2010, Esguerra said.

The Communist Party of the Philippines through its armed wing, the New People's Army, has been waging a guerrilla war in the countryside for nearly four decades.

President Macapagal-Arroyo approved on Friday the purchase of P10 billion worth of attack helicopters, anti-aircraft missiles, patrol boats, and other equipment to bolster the military's fight against communist and Muslim rebels.

The President said that with the government's newly improved fiscal position, it could now allocate an annual P50

Gov't built more than 57,000 homes for poor in '06 -Noli

By Cynthia D. Balana

THE GOVERNMENT PROVIDED APPROXIMATELY 400,000 homes to 11.9 million families and generated 424,000 jobs through the construction of 57,000 housing units last year, Vice President Noli de Castro said.

In his report to the housing sector, Dr. Castro, chair of the Housing and Urban Development Coordinating Council, said that from January to October 2006, the government released P26.516 billion to initiate the housing sector of capital houses and to assist local governments through debt financing.

"We released eight percent of the housing sector of the poor Filipino families, and we were able to deliver housing services to homes. It both the national sector and the local sector came to the forefront," he said.

The government's Asset Release Program provided more housing loans to some 26,612 informal sector families through Presidential Proclamation No. 163,000, involving 400 branches of value-added services and housing also open for disposition to their own point.

In addition, 12,134 families were released from illegal informal sectors and given permanent homes in preference also to informants.

The freight to 25,425 the total number of families released since 2004 from the sheltered rights of way from Manila to Iloilo, while 7,000 more families from Iloilo were also released and given homes to pass the way for the rehabilitation and modernization of the subway system in Manila and work on the.

The ECHO and other housing programs, such as clean upgrading, site development, and services, construction of new housing, immediate new housing and the National Government Center housing program benefited a total of 22,000 households families in 2006.

Under the Community Mortgage Program (CMP), 11,941 families gained shelter services from housing loans amounting to P667 million during the period.

The CMP enables informal sector, alone dwellers or residents of informal areas to purchase the privately owned lands they are occupying through affordable loans granted to their respective community organizations.

The Pig Day Fund, the top housing loan provider to the country granted loans to a total of 21,000 eligible families businesses aggregating to P14.73 billion.

Trading firm that hired Sino fishers unlicensed, says WWF

By Herman Bautista
and Vito Contreras

THE MANILA-BASED TRADING firm which chartered the Chinese fishing vessel Ba Nho and 30-35 men crew who were caught with endangered fish species, including sea bunnies, whales or "manila" whales, the Yabuhaku Marine firm was not licensed to do business in the Philippines.

The World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF) Philippines yesterday and South Pacific Inshore Fisheries Corp. (SPIFC) was further suggested with the Bureau and Exchange Commission not with the Department of Trade and Industry.

"SPIFC chartered the Yabuhaku, therefore, SPIFC bought and owned the fish. We have discussed that SPIFC is not equipped with the SIC, nor with the Department of Trade and Industry in the Autonomous Region in Northern Mindanao (ARMM). How is your (ARMM) able to do this business legally?"

WWF Philippines president, said the Bureau.

But Sharon Sison, SPIFC's operations manager, said that in fish trading, including the protected species trading, was mainly bought from licensed fish farms in Hong Kong, particularly in Hong Kong, which is in Hong Kong.

Sison also stated the Ba Nho did not violate the Fisheries Code which allows the exportation of live fish propagated in government-licensed fish farms.

He showed a certificate bearing the signature of Toot Toot Co. (TTC), issued on Nov. 24, 2006, stating that Sison and the Bureau president, Gary Sison, were legitimate businessmen engaged in the buying and selling of fisheries products in the province.

According to Sison, in recent reports received from the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquaculture Extension (BFAE), since the SPIFC office in Toot Toot had no authority to issue licenses.

"However, in the event that the application for permits and licenses is denied, the cargo consisting of fishery products shall be sold in the domestic market," SPIFC said in a statement.

Do said this was a clear admission that SPIFC had bought and transported the fish without the necessary permits.

Sison also stated that SPIFC global positioning system recordings of the vessel taken by the Yabuhaku would suggest changes that its crew engaged in poaching within the marine park.

He said that SPIFC then stored in the boat's large storage room will show that the Ba Nho was moving toward Manila, about "11 miles" from the sanctuary at the time the vessel was apprehended.

"The manner of apprehension was illegal considering that we were outside. The CPU will not let us and we are willing to have (the memory) copied," he said, whose Ba Nho based firm was up only last year.

But he said that was in fact in SPIFC's claim that the Ba Nho was 11 nautical miles from Yabuhaku when it was apprehended.

"If the Ba Nho were 11 nautical miles away from the Yabuhaku marine station, it could not have been physically spotted. Sison was 11 nautical miles beyond normal sight range, even with binoculars," he said.

To verify the statement from the company, submitted by CPU readings, showed they were only 1-5 nautical miles from the station, and will not be the launch of Yabuhaku, and the nearest park," he said.

The 30-man crew of the Ba Nho were released on Dec. 31 by Yabuhaku fish guards after the endangered fish species were found on the vessel.

The crew was detained at the Yabuhaku government jail. Six of them had passed bail as of Friday.

As this developed, the marine police, Yabuhaku Lake, including Manananggal up Yabuhaku (Manananggal) along the course of a boat departure order against the 30 Chinese fishermen.

Manananggal national chair President Rong said the 30 other guards were not to be involved in the case. He also reported from Yabuhaku T. Mather Jr., Inquirer Southern Luzon

Pichay looks into chess game-fixing

THE NATIONAL CHESS FEDERATION OF THE Philippines is looking into reports of game-fixing in the sport.

At least five players will be investigated for allegedly game-fixing in the past year, said NCFP president Rop Prospero "Buck" Pichay yesterday.

"We have started to investigate these 'five players,'" said Pichay, noting his game-fixing was allegedly committed during the Tamaran Open, the 10th National Chess Open Cup.

"If it's proven they're guilty, they'll be meted out the maximum suspension by the NCFP board," said Pichay. "And if they want change, the board won't hesitate to impose a lifetime ban."

Pichay added the board would look into newly-drawn tournaments.

"It doesn't look good for players to agree to a draw with less than 15 moves and 10 minutes of play," said Pichay. "It takes the meaning out of fighting chess. Besides this profession game."

BAP board fires Jinggoy

IT'S ONE STEP BACKWARD as far as the unification of Philippine basketball is concerned.

The International Association of the Philippines (IAP) dissolved last Jinggoy Formosa as its president yesterday, citing his failure to deliver in hopes a unified league with the International Basketball Federation (FIBA) without consulting the board.

The decision came just a couple of days before Formosa and IAP's chief executive Y. Pangulanan were to announce a historic conference the formation of a unified basketball organization that the world basketball federation (FIBA) required the country to become a member of the league to compete.

The development whipped up a storm of angry reactions, with major basketball publications calling him "incompetent" and blaming the organization for "upholding a tradition of corruption."

"He never in his life saw a basketball player in a suit and tie," said a source within the IAP. "He never saw a basketball player in a suit and tie."

It was the same board that installed Formosa as president who later ousted him.

Under the agreement signed by Jinggoy Formosa and Pangulanan, the board would be a joint venture of the two organizations.

placed last last November, was said to have accepted the decision "in respect to the wishes of the majority."

Jinggoy, who learned of the board's decision yesterday, declined comment on the matter.

He said he was "disappointed" but would continue to work for the unification of Philippine basketball.

holding a tradition of corruption, a tradition of clinging to power and keeping silence in the country."

He also defended his decision, saying "The BAP is an institution to build sports, but the right to power itself from outside forces with vested interests and who are only out to destroy it."

"I wanted to build all the players," he said.

"What outside forces are they talking about?" said Formosa. "Jinggoy is part of them. If these people who want the country back to the same national team are the ones they refer to as having no conscience, there is no life."

The Philippine Olympic Committee (POC), which expelled the BAP from its roster of national sports associations, refused to comment on the developments.

"POC president Juan Pineda Jr. (Jinggoy) just wants to see how the players are before the POC will give its consent," said Jose Formosa, the Philippine body's spokesman. "The POC will just be a witness in this case."

Last Nov. 24, Formosa and Pangulanan announced that they have already agreed to terms regarding the formation of the Sanabaling Basketball of the Philippines (SBP). But will serve as the country's governing body to basketball.

But BAP spokesman Rop Prospero said his group will not join the merger if the name of the BAP will not be retained.

Earlier, former president Formosa said Pineda would be the POC's immediate chairman. He said he would be the POC's immediate chairman.

Lea auditioned for Fantine

By Reynold San Diego Jr.

LEA SALONGA WAS JUST about to pop, eight months pregnant with her firstborn. Recently, when she sang for composer Claude-Michel Schönberg, in a bid for the role of Fantine in the new Cameron Mackintosh production of "Les Misérables" on Broadway.

Schönberg was the same man who wrote her for the role of Eliza, heroine of "Miss Saigon," in 1988.

In spite of her accolades—including a Larry and a Tony for "Miss Saigon"—and the fact that she had wanted to join Mackintosh's musicals ("Miss Saigon" and as Fantine in "Sunset Boulevard"), she still had to go through the wringer. Her career had gotten about as good as it could be, and Fantine, who is different, still
